

Dear Delegate,

We are all aware that public school systems in urban areas face significant challenges and require substantial assistance to provide their students with an education that prepares them for success in life. Both Democrats and Republicans are working to provide resources for these school systems, but in the meantime, what can parents do while politics continue to hamper a timely resolution?

I strongly urge you to support Education Excellence for All (HB1164). This legislation is written to help children who live in underserved communities achieve success in life. It has enabled tens of thousands of low-income children across the United States to thrive and has given their parents peace of mind as their children learn in secure surroundings. HB1164 focuses on underserved communities and gives students access to an education that enables them to read and write proficiently, excel in math, and learn in a safe environment.

We thank you for your support. If you have any further questions, please contact the folks at the Virginia Education Opportunity Alliance (info@veoa.org).
